The bilateral confrontation is about more than just trade issues. It is about economic and military global domination. A struggle between the world’s two superpowers to redefine the future rules and their roles of power and hegemony in the twenty-first century. A subject I have written about extensively in my Custom Maid for New World Disorder trilogy and Feasting Dragon, Starving Eagle.” —Peter de Krassel

4 pm • Randall Amster: Peace Ecology • Reading, Q&A, Booksigning • Sponsored by Prescott PeaceBuilders • The challenges of building a peaceful and sustainable world are connected, with both realms presenting existential crises but also powerful opportunities. At the global scale, war and climate change perpetuate; in many local communities, patterns of environmental degradation and violence are often evident. How are these issues linked, and what interventions hold promise to transform them? How are new technologies impacting these challenges — and potentially enabling communities to address them? Join Dr. Randall Amster (Georgetown University; formerly at Prescott College) for a discussion of these themes from his recent book, Peace Ecology (2015).

MONDAY, JUNE 11 • 5:30 pm • Prescott Friendship Circle • See 6/4.
